

EX-GERMAN EMPRESS DIES IN EXILE

PASSES AWAY THIS MORNING AT DOORN CITY IN HOLLAND

HAS LONG BEEN AFFLICTED WITH HEART TROUBLE WHICH CAUSED DEATH

BURIAL WILL OCCUR WEDNESDAY AT POTSDAM WHERE SHE REIGNED FOR 30 YEARS

(By United Press)

Doorn, Holland, April 11.—The former empress of Germany, Augusta Victoria, died here today at 6 A. M. Warned by the long illness of the kaiserin, most of the members of her family were at Doorn when death occurred.

The empress was a victim of heart trouble. The illness was aggravated by the world war and the kaiser's flight into Holland in the fall of 1918.

The funeral will take place at Potsdam where the empress reigned for thirty years. The body will be taken there Wednesday after preliminary services here tomorrow. Only members of the family will attend the ceremony in the chapel here.

It has not been decided as yet whether the kaiser can accompany the remains to Potsdam. It would be the first visit since 1918. Others of the family will make the journey.

Born in exile, Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein, died an expatriate at the age of sixty-three years. She was born October 22, 1856, before the German empire had become solidified and while her own country was still at war. Its union with Germany became complete when in Feb. 27, 1881, she married Wilhelm.

Prince Wilhelm, II, succeeded to the throne March 8, 1888.

During the time the emperor was building up the empire, preparing for a great campaign to extend his territory, she devoted herself to her home. She never aspired to shine in court. Her husband said of her "the poor dear, she is such a frump."

She delighted in supervising the household affairs of their magnificent home.

Another delight was her seven children. They were Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm, Eitel Frederick, Adelbert, August Wilhelm, Oscar, Joachim and Victoria Louise.

The constant warfare between the crown prince and the emperor caused her much worry and she spent much time in attempting to reconcile them.

During the war she was thrown into the background by her husband. She was said to have grieved over the suffering caused by the war, and did a great deal to comfort and relieve the suffering. She contributed much to the German Red Cross, and did some hospital work. Even in the latter service her personality was against her and her well intended visits at the hospitals were not a great success.

Neither Ex-Emperor or Crown Prince Can Attend Burial

Berlin, April 11.—Neither former Kaiser Wilhelm nor the crown prince will be permitted to attend the funeral of the former kaiserin at Potsdam, it was announced today.

Other members of the family living in Germany will be permitted to take part in the services. Officials also granted a permission that the former kaiserin's body be allowed to lie in state prior to the funeral. Dr. Dryander, pastor to the royal family, left today for Doorn. He will have charge of the ceremony at the private chapel there Thursday.

Col. Leach Nominated by Republicans as Mayor; Refuses to Accept

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, April 11.—Minneapolis republicans were not sure today whether they have a mayoralty candidate.

Brigadier General George Leach, former commander of the 151st Field Artillery, was nominated at the city convention Saturday night but he refused to accept. The convention may be reconvened to nominate another candidate.

TOWN FETES MAN GOING TO PRISON

CANBY GIVES BANQUET TO HINES—LEAVES FOR STILLWATER UNESCORTED

Canby, Minn., April 11.—Believing a hardship was being imposed upon him, more than 200 residents of this city gave a banquet to Clarence Hines Saturday night, just before he boarded a train for Stillwater, where he will surrender himself to the state prison authorities to begin serving a sentence for manslaughter.

Hines, 23 years old, was convicted at Marshall, last fall on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree as the result of an automobile, which he was driving, running down and causing the death of a woman near there.

Appeals for a new trial have been denied and commitment papers reached here Saturday. He went to Stillwater unescorted. He is taking with him an application for clemency and pardon, for presentation to the state pardon board.

More than 200 leading citizens of Canby, including bankers, newspapermen, lawyers, ministers and other professional and business men, attended the banquet and were at the railway station to bid Hines farewell.

Hard to Get In Prison

Stillwater, Minn., April 11.—Clarence Hines had a hard time to get into prison but today started serving a three year sentence and was satisfied.

The warden refused to believe Hines when he arrived from Canby, Minn., with his own commitment papers, unaccompanied.

He was convicted of manslaughter according to his commitment papers, for killing Inga Thorson with an automobile. Nearly every one in Canby believe it was an unavoidable accident, but he was convicted. He went to prison "on his own." The warden declined to admit him until he had verified his story.

Boy Who Stole $96,000 Sentenced to One Year in a Training School

(By United Press)

Chicago, April 11.—Francis J. Carey, employee of the National City Bank of Chicago, Illinois, who stole $96,000, was sentenced to one year in the National Training School at Washington, D. C., today, by Judge Landis of Chicago. Members of congress publicly scored Landis when the case was first called several months ago, and the court blamed officials of the bank for the crime because Carey who is 19, was forced to support his mother on $90.00 a month salary.

106 U. S. ROADS UNABLE TO MAKE BOTH ENDS MEET

DEFICIT OF $7,205,000 SUFFERED IN ONE MONTH UNDER BOOSTED RATES, REPORT

Washington, April 11.—Railroads of the United States suffered a deficit in February of $7,205,000 while 106 out of 200 reporting to the interstate state commission failed to earn their expenses and taxes, as against a deficit of $1,167,000 for January, with 109 out of 202 failing to make expenses, according to tabulations made public by the Association of Railway Executives.

Of the 106 roads reported as failing to make expenses, 46 were in eastern 16 in southern and 44 in western districts.

The 200 roads represent a mileage of 235,562 miles.

Total operating revenues were given as $406,658,000, a decrease of 4 1/2 per cent as compared with February, 1920, while operating expenses were $385,878,000, a decrease of 7 1/2 per cent compared with February a year ago. The net railway operating deficit, however, it was announced, was reduced 56 1/2 per cent compared with February, 1920, when it totalled $16,561,000.

States Can Enact Narcotic Laws

(By United Press)

Washington, April 11.—States can enact anti-narcotic laws which do not conflict with federal laws, the supreme court ruled today.

The state law was attacked by C. B. Whipple, Minneapolis physician, convicted under it. He claimed that he had not violated the law in giving of drugs to his patients in decreased quantities in hopes of curing them of the evil practice.

HARDING SEEKS TO GUIDE CONGRESS

WOULD RELY ON PERSUASION AND COUNSEL TO GET RESULTS

(By United Press)

Washington, April 11.—President Harding today starts out to demonstrate his theory that congress will work better under inspiration of the "golden rule" than the threat of the "black jack."

The new president faces his first real test as leader with the assembling of the extra session of congress today, and he goes into the new phase of his administration determined to rely on persuasion and common counsel.

Troublesome issues divide various party leaders in the house and senate, but President Harding has thus far listened patiently to contending views and sought to harmonize without trying to force either side to surrender.

President Harding practically finished a revision of his message today. He will read it in the joint session tomorrow.

The message has been written with the desire solely to guide congress. Having resigned from the senate only a few months ago, Harding is conscious of the jealousy with which congress guards its prerogatives.

Snow Covers East From New England to West Virginia

(United Press)

New York, April 11.—A cold wave which started Sunday in the east culminated into a snow storm. Driven by cold winds the snow covered a wide area ranging from West Virginia to New England states.

The storm was to be followed by icy winds, the weather bureau announced.

Trees which were beginning to leaf, early gardens and flowers were threatened by the freeze.

INDUSTRIAL WAR THOUGHT AVERTED IN GREAT BRITAIN

SENTIMENT AGAINST STRIKING GROWING AMONG TRANSPORTATION WORKERS

NEGOTIATIONS REOPENED FOR SETTLEMENT OF MINERS' STRIKE

(United Press)

London, April 11.—Britain's threatened industrial revolution was regarded as crushed today. Sentiment against striking was reported growing in railroad and transportation ranks and there are indications the miners, owners and representatives of the government will make important concessions to gain peace.

The miners' negotiations were reopened at eleven o'clock this morning with Robert Horne presiding. Premier Lloyd George made a brief address and the court adjourned until 4 P. M.

Premier George's address was not made public but was said to have been conciliatory probably indicating the government will offer an interest free loan to tide the industry over its difficult period.

It was reported that the premier intends calling a general election in June. This report had a quieting effect on labor.

LEGISLATIVE PROCEEDINGS

(By United Press)

St. Paul, April 11.—The state senate resumed tonnage tax debate this afternoon.

A lively scrap was expected on the Putnam resolution calling for state revenue and tax commission, when the senate convenes at 2:30.

The six per cent occupation tax measure passed Friday and repassed in the house Saturday night, was en route to Governor Preus for his signature or veto. The governor has until Thursday to act. Opponents of the Putnam measure said it was doomed. The constitutional amendment bill which will come up for consideration Wednesday is also said to be due for debate.

The state house appropriation bill carrying $6,500,000 for the use of state departments during the next biennium, was taken up as a public order this afternoon.

A resolution was offered calling for investigation of the street car problems and other public utility questions by an interim committee.

A brief recess was taken this afternoon while house members listened to the St. Olaf choir.

The rules committee plans to submit a report tomorrow on the bribery charges said to have been made through a Minneapolis newspaper by Representative A. C. Welch in discussion of the street car bill.

A bill was passed today giving the state farm bureau federation three votes in meetings of the state agricultural society.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS MEET IN CLEVELAND

TWO THOUSAND WOMEN FROM EVERY STATE IN ATTENDANCE AT MEETING

(By United Press)

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—Two thousand women from practically every state in the nation were here today for the opening of the second annual convention of the National League of Women Voters. This is the first convention to be held since women were enfranchised. The session started today with a committee caucus and will continue through Saturday, April 16. Recommendations for federal and state legislation which will be made by standing committees to the convention will include:

Enactment of safeguards for mothers and children of America by urging congress to pass the Sheppard-Towner bill for federal aid for maternity and infants' care.

To stop the profiteering now going on in necessities of life by establishing public markets, milk depots and other terminal facilities.

Making oaths of allegiance to the United States for each citizen of nationally and foreign born. These three recommendations will be written into proposed laws which the national league will submit to congress and which the state and local leagues will present to their legislatures.

CONFESSED MURDER TO END HIS OWN LIFE

RAY HARRIS FINALLY REPUDIATES CONFESSION—SAID HE DID IT TO END LIFE

(United Press)

Buffalo, N. Y., April 11.—One of the most elaborate attempts at "suicide" in police history was to be formally concluded today with arraignment of Ray Harris, who says he confessed to the murder of Joseph Elwell so the state might electrocute him.

Harris will be brought into court on charges of suspicion of murder, according to Police Chief Higgins. The charges of Harris upon which he was originally arrested on complaint of the authorities of Catherine, Ontario, will also be dropped according to a dispatch from that city.

Harris' repudiation of his confession came yesterday after a grilling by New York and Buffalo officials. He said he had disgraced his family and had caused endless misery for his wife and child, and hoped to end his life in the electric chair.

BAND OF 500 AUTO THIEVES DISCLOSED

LOOT IN MIDDLEWEST ESTIMATED $1,000,000—SIX ARRESTED—MAKERS INVOLVED

Chicago, April 11.—A nationally organized band of automobile thieves, consisting of more than 500 theft experts, dealers in used cars and a few manufacturers, was uncovered by the federal authorities. Two Chicago branches of the government, the department of justice and the district attorney's office, have joined forces for a concerted drive on the ring.

Evidence already shows the band has stolen automobiles valued at nearly $1,000,000 in the larger cities of the middle west the last year. Assistant District Attorney Weis will appear before the federal grand jury today to present evidence against six alleged members of the gang who were arrested. He will ask that a special investigation be ordered for violation of the Dyer act, which provides 10 years imprisonment for persons arrested driving a stolen car.

The Chicago branch of the thieves' organization is said to have operated exclusively in the better residence district, reaping a rich harvest. Members are assigned to drive the stolen cars to Indianapolis or Detroit. There with the help of certain manufacturers, the cars are rebuilt and sold at a big profit.

"Big Bill" Haywood And I. W. W.'s Are Denied Rehearing

(United Press)

Washington, April 11.—"Big Bill" Haywood and 78 other I. W. W. leaders, convicted in the court of Judge K. M. Landis at Chicago for violation of the espionage and the selective service laws, must serve their sentences and pay the fines imposed upon them as a result of an order of the supreme court today.

The court held their attorney presented no reason sufficient for rehearing of their cases.

O'Callaghan Must Leave United States

(United Press)

Washington, April 11.—Donald O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who arrived at Newport News in January as a stowaway and without a passport, must leave the country.

Secretary of Labor Davis made this clear today in a statement. He announced Secretary of State Hughes had denied the plea of O'Callaghan to be allowed political asylum in the United States.

O'Callaghan status is that of an alien seaman. Davis showed he was allowed to remain only temporarily while searching for a berth to reship.

SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS GOT UNDER WAY TODAY

FORMALITIES INCIDENT TO OPENING OCCUPIED SHORT TIME IN BOTH HOUSES

ONE HUNDRED NEW MEMBERS WERE PRESENT, ALSO LARGE GROUP OF FRIENDS

(United Press)

Washington, April 11.—The "tariff congress" got under way at noon today.

Called into special session by President Harding the congressman and senators, elected in November, hurried through the formalities attended upon their opening session.

Adoption of rules, swearing in of members, appointment of committee memberships, already decided, and selection of a committee to wait on President Harding, occupied but few minutes in the house.

The senate having already gone through many of these formalities spent even a briefer time in session.

Tomorrow the conference on tariff matters which leaders have decided to make the first appointment of the session, will begin. More than one hundred new members made their appearance today. The relatives and friends here to see them begin their congressional career formed a large part of the crowd which filled the galleries in the house and senate.

Many Bills Introduced

Washington, April 11.—Several hundred bills were introduced in the house today.

The emergency tariff bill was introduced by Representative Young of North Dakota. It carried the same protective rates on wheat, meat, wool and other agricultural products as the measure of the last session.

Representative Good, chairman of the house appropriation committee, presented the budget bill, a reform favored by the administration.

Other bills all ready for introduction were:

Immigration bill in the form vetoed by President Wilson.

Soldier bonus bill, introduced by Representative Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Authorized reorganization of the government department will be undertaken after special congressional committee concludes investigation.

Authorized transportation investigation by a senate committee to produce revision of the transportation act.

Consolidate soldier relief agencies as recommended by President Harding by the Dawes commission.

Army and navy appropriation bills which were caught in jam last session.

Bill to Abolish R. R. Labor Board

Abolition of the national railroad labor board and a general sales tax of one per cent were proposed in bills introduced in the house today at the opening of the special session of congress.

Abolition of the railroad labor board was proposed in a bill introduced by Representative Linchen, of Kansas.

A general sales tax instead of excess profit tax, was proposed in a bill by Representative Mott, of New York.

Third and fourth classes will be put under parcel post rates in a bill by Representative Steenserson of Minnesota.

Gillette Re-Elected Speaker of House

Why Certain Brand of Cigars is Popular

(United Press)

Okmulgee, Okla., April 11—Chief of Police Dick Carr today knew why a certain brand of cigar is so popular here. A friend handed him one. He bit the end off—then the cigar started to leak. The liquid was analyzed and found to be real red liquor. The chief's friend is now bemoaning his mistake behind the bars.

"Oh, You Kid!" Even in those early days when a child is feeding from the bottle," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "he shows his predilection for something more substantial by trying to get his toes in his mouth."

WENT UP IN RECORD TIME

Comfortable House That Was Begun and Practically Completed in a Single Day.

A farmer in one of the Middle Western states bought material for a house and then discovered that for lack of means he could not go on with it. The stuff lay on the ground for months, when one day a generous thought came into the mind of a contracting builder. He called his men around him and asked for volunteers to build the farmer's cottage, telling them he would undertake to do it within one day if they would contribute their work. Twenty-six carpenters, masons and painters agreed, on the condition that the farmer would furnish a chicken dinner, and a time was fixed for all to report at the site of the proposed building.

Every man appeared on time and all went at once to work. Each worker was assigned to a particular part, and the house began to go up with a rush. When noon came the framework was all up and the chimney was started.

Then came dinner. The wife of the farmer had fried two dozen chickens. There were ten loaves of bread, four dozen ears of corn and neatly a bushel of mashed potatoes. The dessert consisted of cherry cobbler and various kinds of pie. The contractor had to call off his men for fear they would eat so much they would not be able to finish the job.

The hurry began again. Before the roof was on the plasterers were at work, and at exactly six o'clock the cottage was finished, all but the second coat of paint and the skim plaster, neither of which could be put on before the first coat dried. Everything else, even to putting on the locks and hinges, was done before the men were called off, and done well.

The contractor complimented his men when the job was complete. He said that although he had done "hurry" work before, he had never known a house to be begun and completed in a day.

Unidentified Sea Monster.

A sea monster believed to have come up from the depths of the Gulf stream to die and drifted into the shallow water north of the Key, where it was discovered by E. E. Garretson. It was a subject for much inquiry by scientists. A fragment of the skull, weighing three tons and measuring 16 feet in length and 7 feet across, was taken to Miami in tow of the yacht Corsair. Thousands of curious persons visited the dock, but none could name the creature, and Mr. Garretson was uncertain as to the species to which it belongs. He is inclined to the opinion, however, it is a giant squid, for the only bone he could save was the skull. Mr. Garretson declared that when he first saw the monster it was

Perfume at $90 Per Ounce.

The harvest of Bavarian roses for last year, being one of the worst on record, the price of the essence has gone up very considerably. The wholesale price just now is round about $20 an ounce. Before the war it was $7. Contrary to popular belief, however, attar of roses is by no means the most expensive scent on the market. Civet is worth wholesale just now $25 an ounce, and musk $90; ambergris, which forms the basis for nearly all the best quality scents, costs $60 an ounce, and is hard to get at that. These prices refer, in the case of perfumes to the essential oils, one or two drops of which will make quite a decent-sized bottle of scent. Only dealers in precious stones carry more valuable stock in a small space than the dealers in these highly-concentrated essential oils. A quite moderate-sized safe in the office of a firm of wholesale perfumers will frequently contain stock worth $125,000.

FULL OF INTEREST, COLOR, VARIETY

Singer Miss Grace Wynne Impresses Musical Club, Has Pleasing Voice and Personality

HER PROGRAM A VARIED ONE

O. M. Risberg, Xylophone Player and Wm. F. Palmer Pianist in First Appearance at Club
(Contributed)

The last meeting of the Musical club, on April 9, was full of interest, color and variety.

The singer, Miss Grace Wynne, had a pleasing voice, an attractive personality, and a smile that won her audience before she had sung a note.

Her program was characterized by unusual variety, containing arias, a group of American songs, of Negro spirituals, and one of bird songs. The singer seemed equally happy in each group, but the songs in which she used the mellow tones of the middle register were the most enjoyable. Although her program was very taxing, she graciously responded to an encore.

O. M. Risberg ably illustrated the possibilities of the xylophone as a solo instrument. Many among his audience had never dreamed of the skill and precision it required. They expressed their appreciation by an enthusiastic recall.

The precision of the xylophone was matched by the perfect accord of the accompaniment, played by William F. Palmer. This was the first appearance before the Musical club of any of the staff of the Palmer School of Music, but is safe to predict that it will not be the last.

The other accompanist, Mrs. Walter F. Wieland, raised her own record. A phrase usually applied to a race horse is not inept, in this connection, for some of the accompaniments compelled her fingers to literally race across the keyboard.

The report of secretary, Mrs. M. B. Scherich was a brief but very satisfactory summary of the year's program.

That of the treasurer, Mrs. A. C. Weber was terse and business like and contained very satisfying information concerning the conditions of the treasury.

Miss Tornstrom's report on the Study class was in her own original style, spiced with touches of good-natured satire.

The hostesses responsible for this closing program are certainly to be congratulated. They were Miss Louise Barrett and the Misses Walsh and Mesdames Fisher and Rowley.

First Presbyterian Church

The annual business meeting of the First Presbyterian church was held on Thursday evening in the church. Very gratifying reports were given by every department of the church's activities. The Ladies Aid society had a very prosperous year, their total receipts being $1157. The Sunday school, in addition to meeting all its own running expenses, exceeded its allotment of $300 for missions. The local church work was well supported and the total receipts amounted to $2581, which, together with the amount contributed for benevolences made a very good show for the year.

It was voted to increase the board of trustees from 6 to 9 members and Messrs. D. H. Fullerton, W. W. Smythe and Nels Johnson were elected as the three additional members, with terms to run one, two and three years respectively. Messrs. John Carlson and K. W. Lagerquist were elected for a term of three years to succeed the retiring members and Fred Luken was elected to fill the unexpired term of A. Purdy, deceased. J. A. McKay and Harry Hughey were elected to the session for a term of three years. A motion authorizing the board of trustees to proceed to take subscriptions, on an approved plan, for the erection of a new church was passed. The spirit of optimism and harmony prevailed during the meeting.

Luther League

The Luther League of the Clara Lutheran church will meet this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson. The members of the last confirmation class are asked to be present.

Ralston-Rich

Miss Sadie Elizabeth Ralston, daughter of Mrs. M. Benton of 1608 Ninth street Northeast and Wm. Samuel Rich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rich of 432 Northeast Farrar street were united in holy matrimony at the parsonage of the Peoples Congregational church April 8, Rev. J. E. Cadwell officiating.

They were attended by Miss Beth Rich, sister of the bridegroom, and James S. Meade. After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the home of the bridegroom to the members of the immediate family.

The young couple will make their home at 214 Second Avenue, Northeast of this city.

Lowell Loes

The Lowell school basketball team met their second defeat in the inter-grade series Thursday evening, this time at the hands of the Mixed-Graders. The Lowell must be given credit for their defensive work but failed to carry the ball down the floor through the Mixed-Grade guards. The Mixed-Grade quint as a whole played very poor, considering their experience compared to that of the Lowell five. L. Peterson starred for the Mixed-Grade with seven baskets to his credit. Edskiba and Torgelson played well for the losers. The score was 24 to 3 at the end of the game.

Whittier Defeats Washington

The Whittier five surprised themselves Friday night at the high school gym by defeating the Washington eighth grade quint, 12 to 10. In a fast, clean game of inter-grade basketball. The Washingtonians held the lead until the last four minutes of play when the Whittier bunch went in the lead with a basket and a free throw, leaving the final score, 12 to 10. The jinx seemed to be with the Washington boys throughout the whole game, although they started out at a fast gain.

Prickett played a stellar game for the losers but lacked the support from his team mates. Anderson and Lowe played well for the Whittier. Tonight the Lowell and Harrison clash.

THE INFLUENCE

By MOLLIE MATHER.

(© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Alan had never dreamed that a growing daughter could prove such a problem. When Josephine's mother died at her birth, Alan was relieved in the thought that his child's future would be secure in sister's care. Tilda, the elder sister, had raised him in his orphanage and Tilda would be competent to raise his daughter, so thought Alan; but he had not counted upon the difficult temperament of his child Josephine.

Josephine's mother had grown up in the vicinity, and when Tilda approved of their comradeship, and approved also, of the first Josephine's domestic ability and gentle manners, Alan concided heartily with her views, and his early marriage followed. Josephine, the daughter, grown to early young womanhood, possessed neither her mother's domestic tastes nor amenability. Josephine was adventurous, she had views, and she was apt to be interrogative. Alan, traveling afar upon business interests which carried him, grew vaguely troubled. Tilda's complaint, upon his home coming, was that of a new friendship in which her charge persisted.

"It seems," Tilda told her brother, "that the affair has been going on longer than I suspected. Probably this intimacy is responsible for many of Josie's wild views. An infatuation I call it."

"A man?" her brother impatiently questioned.
"My, no!" Tilda replied, "I almost wish it were a man, he would probably knock some of the nonsense out of the girl's head; Josie's divinity is a woman, a mysterious sort of person who has rented the Well's bungalow for the summer. She looks like a motion picture actress, and spends her time playing the harp, selecting to notice no person in town save Josie. Why Josie, I have been unable to determine."

"Disagreeable?" again the father interrupted with a question.

"No," Tilda honestly replied, "on the contrary Josie appears unusually sweet and reasonable. The trouble is, that one wild notion persists. She will study the harp, Alan, I wish you would see that woman yourself and speak to her concerning her mistaken influence over Josephine. She would probably listen to a man, but when I called—"

"You called," interposed the brother, Tilda nodded.

"I thought it was my duty. Josie positively refused to obey when I ordered her not to go to the woman's house again. For let me assure you that the people here think very little of such a stranger. When I called she was making a picture of herself draped before her harp in a greek sort of a robe, and when I reproved her regarding the notion she had put in Josephine's head, she was as sweetly and stubbornly insistent as the child."

"Josephine really should be given her opportunity, she said. So I came away. There is no use trying to forbid your daughter this companionship Alan, but perhaps the young woman may respect your wishes."

Alan hesitated, then decided that it would be wise to have some knowledge of his daughter's new found friend. Josephine was making one of her daily visits at the bungalow. It would appear quite the natural thing to call to see her home. So Alan went. Josephine greeted him in the garden, she was proud of her handsome father and led him forth jubilantly.

"Janet," she called, "Janet come here."

At sight of a white-clad figure in the doorway, Alan's disapproving frown vanished, while Josephine stared in surprise from one to the other. For her father's quick cry had been "Janey, my dear!" while her friend ran in a little rush toward him.

"You will not be displeased, will you Alan," she was saying, "because I stole a march on you and hurried on to meet Josie. I wanted to win your daughter's heart you see, before she should know me under the unfortunate name of stepmother. You were far away Alan, it really seemed the most acceptable way of spending my time. And I have discovered a secret for you, one that will not keep another moment. Your daughter has great musical ability, Alan. I am very certain of this, and you must give her an opportunity."

"But," murmured Josephine, "I do not understand."

"Of course you don't," penitently Janet's arms unfolded her.

"It means dear, that your father and I met some time ago quite accidentally, when he called concerning a certain suit for damages. My little brother, Laddie, had been almost crippled by a recklessly driven automobile, and the suit was brought in order to enable us to procure the best possible surgical skill."

"And while the suit was pending," Alan added, "and the little brother lay in the hospital, this girl whom I learned to love, took the harp which had been her pastime and with it, gave recitals here and there, so that Laddie need lack no help or comfort. And she was becoming such a celebrity in her line, that I thought I had better put my question, before her head should be turned by admiration."

"And so," Josephine finished happily, "everything has ended in just a perfectly heavenly way."

"Ravages" of Education.

An insurance man, speaking to a congress of general agents and managers in St. Louis, reminded his hearers that of the ten thousand men, whose names appear in "Who's Who," only 39 had no schooling. 1,008 had a grade school education, 1,545 a high school training and 5,990 are college graduates. Will somebody page the Missouri solon who argued learnedly against the bill to raise the preparatory requirements of rural teachers in this state by shouting that Abraham Lincoln never had a high-school education?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Remote Reminiscence.

THE END OF THE PARADE

No more will the circus parade take its gay and majestic way through the main streets of 10,000 American cities. This dolorous announcement comes from Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, and is based on such a sordid consideration as this—the parade does not pay.

The confusion when the cars unload at the siding; the gradual but systematic forming of the line of march; the gaudy wagons, the bright costumes, the princely horses, the wild animals, the beauteous ladies, the elephants, the clowns—they will appear no more upon the thoroughfare.

Of course, the circus remains. The pink lemonade and the peanut have not deserted us. The sideshows, the fat lady, the human skeleton, and the wild man from Borneo—they, at least, are faithful. But the circus trust has discovered that in towns where there is no parade draw better attendance inside the big tent than those in which the street show is given. Well, we must confess the parade was always the big thing for us. The callopie's music is the best ever heard anywhere—it has that new-fangled thing, the phonograph, beaten a mile.

Now we shall hear it no more. Let us not feel too badly about it. Let us just sigh, as we always did when the parade was ended, and wish we had a ticket for the circus itself.

TAKE PRIDE IN YOUR HOME TOWN

(Akeley Herald-Tribune)

Unless you take pride in your home town, how can you expect others to do so? Unless you work for its growth and advancement, how can you expect others to be interested in it? Unless you can see in it remarkable possibilities, how can you expect others to find them? Don't go about barking at everyone because the town looks a little out at the elbows—whose fault is it? What composes a town anyway? Is a town the streets, the business houses, the residences that happen to have been placed on a few blocks of earth?

No—a town is the people that make up the population. Is it the traveling men who come on one train and leave on the next? Is it the tourists that go through in their cars? No—it's the people who spend their lives within its borders—who put the imprint of their personality upon its customs, its ordinances, its appearance.

In that case, whose fault is it if the town looks a little seedy—if traveling men occasionally say it is a good place to die in? It is nobody's fault but the citizens of the town who persistently knock it. The growth and development of a town is in inverse ratio to the number and strength of its "knockers." Regardless of what your reputation for veracity may be at home, people are going to believe you abroad when you say your town is on the dead list. So put a padlock on your tongue if you want your town to improve.

Bolsheviks talk of the "seven tons of gold" that the Soviet government has ready to exchange for American goods. It sounds impressive until you sit down and figure out that seven tons of gold are only a little over $4,000,000, which is a mere drop in the bucket of foreign trade. We sell our respectable neighbor Canada that much every couple of days.

Henry Ford has made hundreds of millions, and John Burroughs has neither made nor cared about money; and to many people the ultimate proof of Henry Ford's importance has been that John Burroughs was his friend.

Nearly all of this season's maple syrup has been bought up by the chewing tobacco manufacturers. No help for it—a lot of people have got to split on pancakes to plug.

If it hurt you to pay that income tax, just consider how it must have hurt John D. Rockefeller to pay his $38,400,000.

The railroad labor board has been "calling rail heads" to confer with it.

And what rail heads are for, we presume, is to rail. Also to be called.

The trouble with the American melting pot lately is that it's been stirred up too much.

National League of Women Voters
Washington, April 11—A play from the pen of a Minnesota woman is going to be one of the big features of the convention of the National League of Women Voters, which met here today.

Mrs. C. B. Chorpennig, of Winona Normal school, writer of several plays, is the author of the comedy skit "Lulu Won't Do," which the Minnesota delegation plans to present during the convention.

Delegations from practically every state in the union were here for the opening sessions. The convention will continue all week.

Minneapolis, April 11—Mrs. Eliza Barnett, 87, mother of Major General George Barnett, commandant of the marine corps here, died today.

Barnett wired from San Francisco that he will be unable to attend the funeral tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. Barnett lived at Boyceville, Wis., until two years ago, when her husband died. Since then she has been living here with her daughter, Mrs. A. E. Nixon.

Supreme Court Takes Case Under Advisement

(By United Press)

St. Paul, April 11—The supreme court today took under advisement the appeal of the state from a Dakota county court decision holding the state railroad and warehouse commission did not have power to fix commission men's charges in handling livestock.

About $150,000 of livestock shippers' money is held in escrow pending the decision of the high court. Rogers & Rogers, South St. Paul commission firm, brought the case and the lower court held that the federal law covered the state, and the state body had no authority in regard to rates to be fixed.

FORGOT THE YEARS

World's Big Men Have Laughed at Father Time.

History Records Many Who Defied the Calendar—Too Busy to Take Note of Crow's Feet.

Sir James Canlie flatly challenges a current misconception in his statement: "Old age is just a pose. A man usually grows old because he thinks it is dignified. He sits back and lets the years do what they like with him." It is not so with the septuagenarian, who rises at 4:30 and dances Highland flings. He shares the spirit of Tennyson's "Ulysses," who could not bear to sit idle amid his island crags, or of Barrie's "Peter Pan," who refused to grow up, or of him who, according to another poet, kept the immortal child tarrying all his lifetime in his heart.

We do not have to look long for monumental examples of great men who, like Oliver Wendell Holmes in his poem, "The Boys," and in his personal example, defied the calendar. To one such perennially young gentleman, namely, Dr. W. W. Keen, the community that affectionately reveres him is even now preparing to do honor.

The will to keep youthful in the spirit seems to be the biggest part of immortality. We have lately had occasion to consult the record of a gentleman named Hepburn, who graduated from Princeton in 1832, and did not pass away until 1911, 79 years later, when he had attained the ripe age of ninety-six. Unlike many of the Old Testament patriarchs, of whom nothing is recorded but their exceedingly long lives, Doctor Hepburn was usefully and fruitfully busy through several generations. The empire of Japan, a country that never forgets anything or anybody, will forever hold his name in honor among the benefactors. Not merely did he train some of the foremost of her diplomats, but he compiled the famous dictionary that resolved the barriers between the tortuous tongue of Nippon and our own.

The thought of growing old is chiefly oppressive to those who never grow anything else. Most of those who produce, create, achieve, are too busy to study crow's feet in the mirror or calculate percentages of lines in the brows or acid in the blood. They are not forever in a lonely observatory on the outlook for new symptoms. They are up and doing with a whetted appetite for fresh adventure. There is "Labrador" Cabot of Boston, who is forever starting out on a one-man expedition among the Indians of the barrens not very far from the desolate spot where the balloon came down with Lieutenant Hinton and his comrades. It is useless to tell him that he is too old. You might as well try to persuade "Oooh John" Burroughs to quit exploring swamps and forests and playing with squirrels. Nature, they tell us, has no favorites, but she has a way of granting to the naturalists a special grace in growing "old." The life of Fabre, which began in 1823 and did not end until 1915, might be cited, or that of Chevreul, 1786-1889. Many artists, moreover, are like St. Gaudens, and "do not count the mortal years it takes to mold memorial forms." "If I live to be 100," said the modest Hokndal, "perhaps I shall be able to draw a line." Such a man knows what it means to live for many years and to remain forever young because forever acquisitive, inquisitive, aspiring.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Rules for Life's Conduct.

Never despise anything because it seems wanting in brilliancy. Learn to recognize virtue and honor and excellence, no matter how lowly the garb or humble the dwelling in which you find them. The only thing to do with any excellence is, love it; with honor, emulate it; with virtue, revere it; and the highest compliment you can pay to character is, possess it.—Selected.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Lyceum

William Fox has given to Pearl White another masterpiece in which to display her power on the screen. It is Henri Bernstein's "The Thief," to be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Tuesday.

Miss White is making just as big a name for herself in dramatic features as she did in serials. She gets the serial thrill into all of her pictures, and her personality always lends an added interest to the big stories selected for her.

In "The Thief," which was a successful play on both hemispheres, she has a story that holds its intense interest to the end—which is a climax with a big surprise.

Max Marcin and Paul H. Sloman wrote the scenario and Charles Giblyn directed the picture.

"H Souls Eve"

Mary Miles Minter, the charming screen star is coming to the Lyceum Wednesday and Thursday in "All Souls Eve."

At the New Park

One of the most interesting casts secured this season will surround Clara Kimball Young in her next big production, "Eyes of Youth," now being taken at the Garson Studios in Los Angeles.

The cast has been selected from the very highest ranks of both stage and screen, and there is hardly a bit in the production that is not being played by an artist of star qualities.

Clara Young is playing the role of Gina Ashling, which was created in the New York production, one of the most sensational successes of the season, by Marjorie Rambeau.

One of the really big parts of the play is that of Paolo Salvo, the Italian impresario, who inveigles Gina into accompanying him to Europe for an operatic career. The distinguished actor, William Courtleigh, has been secured for this role, while Gareth Hughes will play the role of Kenneth Ashling, the brother, and Edmund Lowe, a favorite of both the stage and screen in New York and throughout the country, is playing the part of Peter, the successful suitor. The mysterious and particularly colorful character of the Hindu Yogi that weaves itself through the play, giving an air of the mysteries of the Orient, will be created by Vincent Serrano, while Pauline Starke, recently appearing with Norman Kerry in "Soldiers of Fortune," will play the role of Rita Ashling, Gina's younger sister. Sam Sothern, Ralph Lewis and Milton Sills have the other featured characters of the production, and there will be fully twenty or more bits and small character parts to be taken care of. "Eyes of Youth" will be shown at the New Park today and tomorrow.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully coloring the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Easy methods of catching fish have been invented by the natives of Guam, where the pulpy fruit of a native tree is inclosed in a bag and sunk into deep water where the big fish are. The fruit juice is sought by the fish and stupefies them, so they float to the surface and are taken easily in large numbers.

WHERE THE TICKETS ARE SOLD

At Schools, the Library and Mesdames Rasch and Armstrong at Their Homes

"Shore Acres" is the benefit movie given for the public library at the New Park theatre on Wednesday afternoon and evening, April 13.

The library is sorely in need of funds with which to buy books, especially for the children's department. The public will see a good show with a Cape Cod setting, a bad boy, a promoter, a love story and a storm and shipwreck.

Tickets may be obtained at the different schools, the library or from Mrs. Rasch and Mrs. Armstrong.

Now the St. Cloud laundry's dry-cleaning department is having alterations made and all St. Cloud dry-cleaning received is being sent to the Brainerd Model Laundry for treatment, thus showing the reciprocal arrangements existing and balancing any claim, it is reported, that Brainerd was not receiving its share of local work.

NEW PHONOGRAPH ROOM

Northern Home Furnishing Co. has installed a beautiful section for displaying instruments.

The new phonograph room of the Northern Home Furnishing Co. is a section typifying in highest manner the artistic ideas of the company in giving a suitable setting to the phonographs they handle and the room besides being a marvel of the blending of shades and furnishings has acoustic properties of a high order.

The woodwork is of mahogany finish and the walls are of straw color. The room is hung with pretty blue silk drapes. Some fifteen instruments of the Brunswick make, all types and designs, are shown. There are chairs for patrons where they may sit down and have a demonstrator reveal to them the beautiful tonal qualities of the phonographs.

In one section of the room is shown the inner workings of the phonographs and the wonderful silent motors.

Soap Will Stop It.

An ordinary piece of kitchen soap is one of the best lubricants. A corner of the cake rubbed on the metal of a latch that will not work, on the cords of a window that sticks, on bureau drawers or doors that will not open and close easily will remedy the trouble in remarkably quick time.

PARENT-TEACHERS PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Washington-Lincoln Organizations to Have Interesting Session at the High School Tuesday

"BRAINERD SCHOOL PROBLEMS"

George D. LaBar to Speak on This Topic of Deep Interest to Parents, Taxpayers, Etc.

The Parent-Teachers organization of the Washington and Lincoln schools have arranged for an ambitious program to be given on Tuesday evening, April 12, commencing at 8 o'clock and to be held in the high school assembly room. There will be short, pungent addresses, right to the point and of interest not alone to the organizations addressed but to every taxpayer of the city.

George D. LaBar, member of the school board of the second ward, will speak on "Problems of Brainerd Schools". Mr. LaBar will summarize legislation desired or pending which affects this district and will give problems of the board which citizens must soon take up and assist in solving.

Mrs. Clarence Smiley, the progressive teacher of the Riverside school in West Brainerd will tell what the West Brainerd parent-teachers organization is doing in community work.

H. F. Michael will speak on "The Fundamentals of Business Training". Mr. Michael has had much experience in business life and will give the results of his observations.

Dr. A. K. Cohen will speak on "Care of Teeth of Children of School Age".

Helen Paine will give a recitation, Roland Jenkins will give a vocal solo, a piano selection will be played by a pupil of Wm. F. Palmer.

Adjutant H. H. Kline of the Salvation Army will speak on the "Necessity of Cooperation Between Home and School", showing the influence of home on school work.

E. G. Roth, county agricultural agent, will speak on "The Value of Milk as a Food". Milk forms the basis of Minneapolis school lunches. As county agent Mr. Roth has worked indefatigably to increase the milk standard of the county by getting good cattle, cleanliness and sanitation.

Mrs. Ben S. Armstrong will preside. A large attendance is desired of the community in the Washington-Lincoln school district as every subject presented will be of live interest.

WHITTIER SCHOOL

Parent-Teachers Organization to Meet at the School on Tuesday Evening, April 12

This program will be given by the Parent-Teachers organization of the Whittier school on Tuesday evening, April 12:

Piano solo—Miss Alice Johnson.
"The Parents' View"—Mrs. E. B. Darling.
Vocal solo—A. C. Mraz.
"Health Talk"—Dr. R. A. Beise.

C. E. CHIPERFIELD WAS NOMINATED

Former Brainerd Man, Now of Canton, Ill., is Republican Choice for Supreme Court Judge

WON ON THE SIXTH BALLOT

Received a Total of 93 Votes from 14 Counties, One More Than Necessary to Nominate

High honors have come to a former Brainerd man, C. E. Chiperfield, now located in Canton, Illinois. He has been declared the choice of the republicans for supreme court judge.

From 1888 to 1896 Mr. Chiperfield was a deputy clerk under S. F. Alderman in the district court at Brainerd and studied law here. He was admitted to the bar and rose rapidly in the ranks of his profession. He served as municipal judge in Brainerd, as county attorney and was married to Miss Minnie McFadden. He then went to Canton to practice law with his brother and who was since elected congressman of that district.

In a special telegram from Monmouth, Ill., to his home paper, "The Canton Daily Register", details of the nomination are given and the paper used a seven column head "C. E. Chiperfield Nominated", to herald the glad news.

The special stated: "C. E. Chiperfield of Canton was nominated candidate for judge of the supreme court at the republican judicial convention of the Fourth Supreme Court district on the sixth ballot. He received a total of 93 votes, one more than necessary to nominate".

The counties from which he drew his strength were Adams 20, Fulton 19, Hancock 14, Mason 6, McDonough 14, Menard 4, Morgan 4, Warren 12. The totals of the sixth ballot were Chiperfield 93, Dietz 67, Jarman 10, Martin 13. He drew the complete vote of Fulton, Hancock, McDonough and Warren counties.

BUYS SARGENT FACTORY

J. F. Cibuzar Will Consolidate Sargent and Cullen Pop Factories at Cullen Place

J. F. Cibuzar, who recently bought the Cullen pop factory, has now bought the Sargent factory and will consolidate the two at the Cullen place on the south side. The Sargent location will be kept for the storage of various beverages.

Mr. Cibuzar is daily enlarging his business and increasing his list of patrons. He was first attracted to Brainerd when he came from Mason City, Iowa, to spend his summer holidays at the lakes. He liked Brainerd so well that he sold his soft drinks manufactory in Mason City, Iowa, and entered the business field of Brainerd.

WHO IS VILLAGE ATTY. OF CROSBY

Case Comes Before Judge W. S. McClenahan in District Court on Mandamus Proceedings

BRIEFS ARE ORDERED FILED

Francis E. Murphy Claims the Office—Village Council Had Elected C. L. Benedict

Who is the village attorney of Crosby? Mandamus proceedings have been brought against the village council of Crosby by Francis E. Murphy and the matter was heard by Judge W. S. McClenahan of the district court Saturday morning.

The village council of Crosby was called upon to elect a village attorney. One candidate was Francis E. Murphy who had been village attorney up to that time according to his claim, but it is now claimed by respondents he had never qualified which would leave him a defacto officer. The other candidate was C. L. Benedict.

By a vote of 4 to 1 the council appointed Benedict. Murphy claims that because he is an honorably discharged U. S. soldier of the late war that he is entitled to the office under an act of the legislature passed in 1919.

The respondents claim not only that the act is unconstitutional, but does not apply in these circumstances. If it develops that there are issues of fact, then the case will be disposed of by trial at the May term of the district court.

It is believed only questions of law will be involved. The court gave the respondent until April 16 to file a brief and the relator until April 23.

Chiropractic for Stomach Trouble

If your stomach is out of order consult a Chiropractor at the earliest possible moment. He will tell you why your stomach is not as it should be. He will locate the point where the pinched nerve is and will adjust the vertebrae which are out of position and which produce the pressure on the nerve. As soon as this is adjusted and the pressure relieved, the nerve will carry the life force freely to the stomach. As soon as the nerve begins normal function then so soon will the stomach become strong and normal.

This paint film is less than 1/100 of an inch thick. What does that mean to you?

When you stop to realize that a two-coat film of paint is less than 1-100 of an inch in thickness, and that this thin film stands between your house and the weather, you can see the vitalness of buying the right kind of paint.

Lowe Brothers High Standard Paint forms a tougher film than any other paint we know of. It is elastic. It will not crack with the weather's changes. It is both weatherproof and waterproof.

It costs a little more than most paints, but it always covers more surface, therefore less paint is required and you actually save money at the very start. This fact, coupled with its long lastingness, makes it really an investment paint.

If you want to prevent future trouble, come in and talk over your paint problems with us.

TSARIBROD: A REGION OF RUMORS AND AROMAS

Serbian forces were reported a few weeks ago to have entered Tsaribrod, hitherto on the Bulgarian side of the border, preparatory to occupation of a strip of territory detached from Bulgaria by the treaty of Neuilly which followed the World war.

One traveler has described the road-bed along this segment over which the luxurious Orient Express used to make its semi-weekly trip from Paris to Constantinople, as the worst in the world; and the mountain scenery as the finest. Probably both statements were exaggerated. But the ravines, boulders and torrential streams of the Nishava River region, just before the railway crosses the Bulgarian frontier, are comparable with the Alps and sometimes suggest our own Grand Canyon region in miniature.

Tsaribrod is inconspicuous. It shelters a population of only a few thousand. It has the inevitable castle, which still seems to keep a frowning guard over red-roofed houses. Significantly, in view of the economic life of Bulgaria, and the recent marked preponderance of agrarian representation in the government, each house has its garden.

After the Orient Express passes the border line it traverses the Sivilnitsa battlefield, the Bunker Hill of Bulgaria; and the first important city after Sofia is Philippopolis, in the vicinity of which one of the world's most esthetic industries is established—that of cultivating rose gardens to distill attar of roses.

At Philippopolis, under pressure of expected attacks from Turkey, Prince Alexander was installed as the head of the newly united Bulgarian states in 1885. Unexpectedly it was Serbia, not Turkey, which made the move in protest against the union with eastern Rumelia. The Serbian forces mobilized in the Nishava valley; the Bulgarian army was far away. Hence a famous order, which resulted in the making of military history, to commanders of Bulgarian units to hasten to Sivilnitsa. The speed with which the troops were moved, in this better-known fashion, was remarkable. Their movement was accelerated by orders to citizens to furnish supplies as they passed. The advance held the Serbian forces, which were headed for Sofia, or Sivilnitsa. When reinforcements arrived the enemy was defeated. The Serbian armistice proposal was presented at Tsaribrod. This incident gave Bulgaria a sense of national unity and prowess which may be compared to that which Japan attained by her defeat of the Russians.

WHY LIGHTHOUSES WON'T "STAY PUT"

Long agitation to save Barnegat Light from removal, and announcement that jetties will be built to preserve the historic beacon, give a hint of the extreme variability of coast lines and conditions.

"A survey of the coast of New Jersey shows strikingly the results that are wrought upon a shoreline by the wind and the waves," writes John Oliver LaGrone to the National Geographic society.

"The beaches for the most part are being driven back by the sea, but the harbors, which were accessible to coasters quite within the memory of men now living, are being closed by the traveling drift, just as most of the mouths of the streams emptying into the ocean have been closed.

"In a description of the Jersey coast, published in 1879, it was stated that, prior to the war of 1812, Old Cranberry Inlet was one of the best anchorages on the coast, and it afforded a safe harbor for American privateers on the lookout for British ships during the Revolution. It opened one night by the angry sea breaking across the beach, and during the last year of its existence as a harbor the whole channel drifted nearly a mile to the northward. Its closure, about 1812, caused so much inconvenience that, in 1821, one Michael Ortleby attempted to cut a new inlet near the head of Barnegat Bay. With the assistance of others, it was finally finished; but the following morning, to the amazement of the voluntary workers, it had closed up again. Later an other effort was made to effect the same thing lower down the bay. The cut was completed July 4, 1847, the work being done by several hundred men under Anthony Ivens, Jr. The water was let in, but it filled up almost as quickly as the Ortleby cut, so relentlessly was the sea's war carried on.

"A survey at Atlantic City, in 1863, revealed the fact that in the course of but a few years the shore at Maine avenue had lost 76 acres. True, most of this material was deposited in the lee of the point extending from New Jersey to Ohio avenues, causing an advance of the beach lines at Pennsylvania avenue of about 1,000 feet. In addition to this part of the plot some 56 acres, all in the brief space of a decade. This transfer of property from one riparian owner to another without consideration is not provided for in the statutes, but might properly be regarded as inequitable, especially to the original owner. However, no one has yet gone into court for an injunction against the sea for thus robbing Peter to pay Paul.

"When the lighthouse at Atlantic City was threatened, in 1878, the United States challenged the sea by the construction of a jetty at the head of Atlantic avenue. This was inaugurated a series of defensive works, which have been continued from time to time by individuals, so that 82 additional acres have been reclaimed from the sea to the great benefit of the city, as well as to that of the riparian owners; but they had to fight hard for every inch."

SAVING THE ELK

A check-up of the elk in Yellowstone National park, last stronghold of these largest members of the deer family, shows a discouragingly small number there, and it is now feared that many more have perished than had been thought. The elk's existence depends upon his freedom to wander from the highland snows to the shelter and forage of the valleys below. Early blizzards drive him outside the protection of the national reservation into the midst of the open season for hunting in the two adjacent states.

The southern herds follow the rivers, which flow out of Yellowstone in all directions, to the famous Jackson Hole country, once the haunt of bandits and cattle thieves, where human life now is safe but where the influx of civilization spells death for the elk. The northern herds when driven by snowstorms usually descend into the Montana borderlands where settlements have flung a barrier for wild animals across the edge of the park.

Wholesale shooting of the elk has been the first consequence in the past. Much of this shooting, according to reports received in Washington, does little credit to sportsmanship. Some marksmen have not troubled to follow and capture animals they have wounded. Their sheltered life in the national reservation has made the elk tame; and they wander into many a backyard to find unexpected enemies.

But this shooting does not mark the climax of the tragedy. As noted, the settlements have cut off the grazing lands. There is some provision for the southern herds, though woefully inadequate, but practically none for the northern herds.

The protection afforded the elk which stray into Wyoming is that of the state game preserves, known as the Hoodoo, Shoshone and Teton. Further protection is that afforded in a limited way by the winter elk refuge at Jackson, Wyo., founded by the biological survey. There hay is raised for feeding the elk, but some seasons far from enough has been on hand for the feeding of the thousands forced out of the park, and even out of the reservations, by the early winter.

In ordinary and mild winters such as the present one the animals remain in the park; in more severe winters, when the cold and snows come late, the preserves and the refuge have taken care of many of them.

SPANISH MOROCCO

Spanish troops, according to recent newspaper dispatches, have carried out important operations in the Spanish zone in northern Morocco. In strengthening its military hold and extending its civil government in northern Morocco, Spain is turning the tables of history squarely about. For it was from this country that the Moors and Arabs swarmed across the Straits of Gibraltar in the year 711 and placed Spain under a Mohammedan domination, the last vestiges of which were finally removed only in the year in which Columbus discovered America.

This Spanish Moroccan zone is the pedestal of the southern of the two

A Moroccan Type.

"Pillars of Hercules," which for long centuries were the western portals of the known world. It is part of the Mauretania of the Romans, one of their granaries when the empire was at its greatest. It was the country of the Barbary pirates who harassed the shipping of the world for centuries, collecting tribute from many governments, and in whose suppression the infant United States navy cut its first post-Revolutionary war teeth in the early part of the Nineteenth century. It is now part of Morocco, which in many ways preserves more truly than any other Mohammedan country the flavor of the "Arabian Nights."

Spain, lying only a few miles north of the northern shores of Morocco, was naturally one of the first of the modern nations of Europe to gain a foothold in that country. Melilla, a seacoast town near the northeastern corner of Morocco, came into the possession of Spain in 1497, and other Mediterranean coast towns have been captured at various times since. Though a definite zone of Spanish influence has been recognized since an agreement between France and Spain in 1912, Spain has done little more at any time than to hold the ports and a small area of the hinterland about each. Spanish authority farther inland has been more or less nominal and has never been exercised at all in the more remote sections of the zone. Bandits, of whom the chief was the notorious Raisuli, have operated in the Spanish territory in recent years with little molestation. One of their favorite activities has been the kidnapping of Europeans and Americans for ransom.

The Spanish Moroccan zone is a relatively narrow strip of territory with an area about equal to that of Belgium, or slightly greater than that of Vermont, extending across the entire northern part of Morocco. It has a frontage of about 200 miles on the Mediterranean sea and of about 30 miles on the Atlantic. It does not include the city of Tangier on the northwestern point of Africa, that city with a surrounding territory of 140 square miles having been under international control since 1912. The country is mountainous but contains considerable agricultural land. This portion of Africa is free from desert conditions. The Spanish zone, like the portion of Morocco under a French protectorate to the south, probably contains valuable mineral deposits, but the disorders prevailing heretofore prevented adequate prospecting. In recent years Spain has spent much more on the zone than has been received from it in revenues.

RHODESIA: A 1921 LAND OF OPHIR

Suggestions by archeologists that Rhodesia may be the land of Ophir, mentioned in the Bible as a source of Solomon's riches, lends added interest to a region already attracting attention for its present-day resources. The act creating the important Union of South Africa to the south reserves the right to add Rhodesia to that dominion of the British empire. R. D. Parsons, writing to the National Geographic society, describes some phases of Rhodesian life as follows:

"The wet season in Rhodesia begins in November and lasts until the first of June. All kinds of garden seeds and cereals are in the ground by Christmas and in January the first crop of millet is harvested. Great ceremonies attend both sowing and reaping. The dry season begins in June and lasts until the end of October. It is occupied with threshing, hoarding grain, storing wood and burning brush on seed beds for the sake of the wood ashes.

"No matter how hot the days are, the nights are cool and campfires are needed. On the elevated tablelands or plateaus the nights are very cold.

"Taxes are not onerous in Rhodesia, as each hut pays only three shillings a year, which is 72 cents, or a rate of 6 cents per month.

"The Zambezi river, which forms the southern boundary of North Rhodesia, is spanned at Livingstone, just below the Victoria falls, by an American-made cantilever bridge bearing the Cape to Cairo railroad. As the water plunges 400 feet, the electrical energy to be developed is incalculable. It is proposed to carry the wires on steel 'poles' fashioned like oil derricks, to the Kimberly mines, Johannesburg, Pretoria and around to Cape Town, on the one hand, and up through Kharum and the Nile valley. Even the pyramids may be decorated with lights made to glow by current from these mighty falls.

"In a country like Rhodesia where there are no roads either good, bad or indifferent, getting about is no fun. All the British officials have 'bikes,' but they are more ornamental than useful, so they use the 'machilla' which, to quote them, is an invention of the devil. It consists of a long pole with two natives at each end. Midway hangs the hammock for the 'brough,' allas the English victim, whose back is lacerated by bushes and stumps and his body more or less submerged when going across a river. The bearers keep up a chant that sounds like the wail of lost spirits, and it never occurs to them that the passenger is not as happy as if in a Pullman chair car.

"Some of these African tribes have alert, active minds. They can commit to memory page after page of a textbook, but the trouble is they do not comprehend the meaning. They learn telegraphy, typewriting, the manual of arms, etc., with wonderful rapidity and as nothing is more dear to the African heart than ceremony, they go into ecstasies over parades and the morning and evening flag tactics.

"In most of the tribes are to be found skilful artificers. Show them a piece of imported furniture and they will exactly duplicate it. They weave bark fabrics of every kind and manufacture musical instruments, keyed, string, wind and percussion.

Wherever suitable clay is found, they make pottery, tiles and brick. Almost every English official has a picturesque residence of brick with tile roof, surrounded by beautiful gardens.

"When Rhodesia gets proper transportation facilities, it will supply the British empire with cereals, cotton, tobacco, rubber, cattle, nuts and fruits."

SEES TURKISH RULE AMUSING

English Author Finds Funny Side to Life in Jerusalem Under the Crescent.

The tradition of Turkish rule in Palestine as one finds it in Jerusalem is simply a joke, declares G. K. Chesterton in his book, "The New Jerusalem." All the stories about it are jokes and often very good jokes. My own favorite incident is that which is still commemorated in the English cathedral by an enormous hole in the floor.

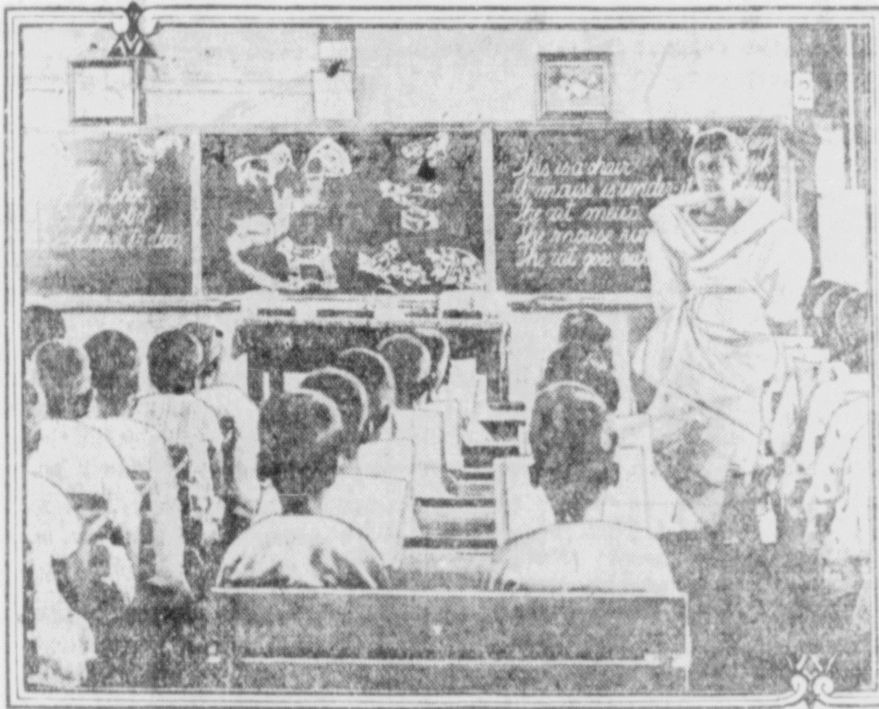

The Turks dug up the pavement looking for concealed British artillery, because they had been told that the bishop had given his blessing to two cannons. The bishop had, indeed, recently appointed two canons to the service of the church, but he had not secreted them under the floor of the cathedral. There was another agreeable incident when the Turkish authorities, by an impulsive movement of religious toleration, sent for a Greek priest to bury Greek soldiers, and told him to take his choice in a heap of corpses of all creeds and colors.

But at once the most curious and the most common touch of comedy is the perpetual social introduction to solid and smiling citizens who have been nearly hanged by the Turks. The fortunate gentleman seems still to be regarding his escape with a broad grin. If you were introduced to a polite Frenchman who had come straight from the guillotine, or to an affable American who had only just vacated the electrical chair, you would feel a faint curiosity about the whole story. If a friend introduced somebody saying, "My friend Robinson; his sentence has just been commuted to penal servitude," or "My Uncle William, just come from Dartmoor prison," your mind and perhaps lips would faintly form the syllables "What for?" But evidently, under Turkish rule, being hanged was like being knocked down by a cab; it might happen to anybody.

Jefferson's Religious Belief.

Perfect happiness, I believe, was never intended by the Deity to be the lot of one of his creatures in this world; but that He has very much put in our power the nearness of our approaches to it, is what I have steadfastly believed.—Thomas Jefferson.

Schools Are Making Filipinos An English Speaking Race

This is the type of schoolroom that is rapidly making an English speaking nation out of the 10,500,000 inhabitants of the Philippines.

If a teacher in a public school in the Philippines desires to punish a child, she doesn't have to apply the ruler. She simply sentences the offending pupil to remain away from school a few days!

This is the most severe punishment she can inflict, for Filipino children take an almost abnormal pleasure in going to school and acquiring an education. The all-Filipino legislature, in response to the popular demand for "schools, and still more schools," is constantly increasing its appropriations for education, but the schools can scarcely be constructed fast enough to care for the ever-increasing enrollment. The school enrollment is now 892,000 without any compulsory attendance laws. When Dewey sailed into Manila Bay there were 2,100 private schools in the islands. Today there are 6,500 schools and colleges, with 17,000 Filipino teachers and about 1,000 other teachers, 341 of whom are Americans.

The University of the Philippines is the center of learning of the entire Orient, and is the pride of the Filipino people. It has an enrollment of 3,500 students. Santo Tomas university of Manila, older than Harvard, is another famous seat of learning.

The school system includes normal schools, agricultural colleges, twenty-seven farm schools, a nautical school and a school for the deaf and blind.

The Filipino pupil, in addition to learning English and in addition to his regular studies, learns basket making, embroidery and hat weaving, the trades peculiar to the islands, as well as the domestic sciences and pedagogy.

There are more positions than can be filled by the trade school and commercial college graduates. The trade and agricultural schools produced $1,176,850 worth of goods in 1919.

There is nothing that the Filipino people take more pride in and that

Inventor of the Zeppelin.

Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, German inventor, one of the foremost aeronauts of the world at the beginning of the Twentieth century, died in 1917. While many of the expectations of the Zeppelin were realized, it was apparent late in 1916 that the smaller, fleet-er aircraft of the monoplane and bi-plane type were better adapted to almost all kinds of warfare, and the aged inventor died in the knowledge that successful conquest with his invention was impossible.
